SAYS U. S. DOING WRONG TO SEND WAR MUNITIONS

CHICAGO, Ill.—"No economist or writer has yet demonstrated that a neutral nation is justified in using all its corporate powers, its financial aid, its manufacturing plants, its railroads, its banking interests to turn out destructive munitions of war for the express purpose of snuffing out the lives of a people with whom we have no quarrels, for the simple and sole purpose of getting an enormous temporary profit for a few favorite plunderers."

This was the declaration of Frank S. Monnett, former attorney-general of Ohio and attorney for the government in "trust busting" suits, in an address yesterday at the luncheon of the German Club in the Hotel Sherman.

"It has taxed the ingenuity of the most venal of the literary men and hired lobbyists to prepare propaganda that could even remotely justify such an action," he said. "The criminal laws of the United States have been violated almost daily by the issuing of false manifests, and that even to masters of vessels carrying passengers."

President Wilson came in for comment, in which Mr. Monnett charged him with being misled by the applause of those who profit by his policies.

"Some unseen forces have now gained power again in the government," he said.

"We must save the president and his advisers if we can, from the apostles of hate, from the beneficiaries of blood money."

CHINA FEARS JAPAN INTENDS TO REVIVE DEMANDS OF 'GROUP V'

Recent Utterances of Baron Ishii Disturb Peking; Held to Contain Menace

(By Associated Press.)

PEKING.—Recent utterances of Baron Ishii, Japan's new minister of foreign affairs, concerning the unsettled conditions in China and the repeated statements of Japanese newspapers about the necessity for the preservation of peace in China have caused much uneasiness and apprehension in Peking.

Repeated rumors that Japan has revived the demands made under group V in its ultimatum of May 7, add to the general unrest in China and afford food for the campaign which is being waged by the opponents of the monarchical movement.

"God Help Coming Empire."

In a recent article the Tokio Daily Yamato states that Baron Ishii will have a far better defined foreign policy than his predecessor and is expected to improve the foreign relations with Japan by some striking diplomatic strokes. Commenting on this, the Peking Gazette says: "If strokes more striking than those delivered by Mr. Hiroki at the command of Baron Kato, and which yielded the brigand harvest of the Japanese demands are expected, then God help the coming empire in China."

The demands made by Japan under group V, all of which are now held in abeyance, are the dread of all Chinese. Constant references are made to them in the newspapers printed in Chinese as well as those printed in English. Under this group there are seven articles. The first provides that the Chinese government shall employ influential Japanese as advisers in political, financial and military affairs. Article 2 empowers Japanese hospitals, churches and schools to own land in the interior of China. Under the third article, Japan seeks joint administration with the Chinese of the police department in important Chinese cities.

The fourth article stipulates that China shall buy at least 50 per cent of its munitions of war from Japan, and shall employ Japanese technical experts in an arsenal operated jointly in China by Chinese and Japanese. The fifth article demands the right to construct important railways in the Yangtze Valley. Article 6 stipulates that when China needs foreign capital to develop public works in the province of Fukien, Japan shall first be consulted. The concluding article demands that Japanese subjects shall have the right of missionary propaganda in China.

President Yuan Shih-Kai and his advisers protested vigorously against this group, which will be remembered as the group which was kept secret for some time, declaring that these demands "were not proper subjects for international negotiations, conflicting as they did with the sovereign rights of China, the treaty rights of other powers, and the principle of equal opportunity."

Supporters of the republican form of government are frank in their charge that President Yuan Shih-Kai is putting China clearly at the mercy of Japan by risking the change to a monarchy at a time when the world powers are engaged in a struggle which will make foreign interference in Far Eastern politics unlikely.

JAPANESE MAIDENS WANT PERMIT TO SELL SAIMIN IN AALA PARK

Two pretty Japanese maidens, decked in gaily colored kimonos and clacking along on wooden sandals, explained no more—the frown of misunderstanding still being evident on the faces of the two maidens—he called in Assistant Purchasing Agent J. H. Hakuole, interpreter, who speaks the language of Nippon like a native.

Numerous nods and smiles, and drawing in of breaths through closely shut teeth, and the ordinance was explained to them by the interpreter. As a last resort the two left a letter to the mayor in the hope that some special dispensation of the executive providence may yet befall them. The letter reads:

"Honorable Mr. Mayor: We want to sell saimin or Japanese soup at Aala park on every evening, because by this time we were driven out by the policeman, so we were much surprised about this, and therefore come before your honor to ask for a right to sell there."

"H. NAKAMURA."

ACADEMY STUDENTS MAY BE GIVEN MILITARY TRAINING

The education committee of the board of trustees of Oahu College will meet next Wednesday to complete a report on the advisability of introducing semi-compulsory military training for the students of Oahu College. This report will be presented to the trustees, and if the trustees approve it is likely that an army officer will be detailed to give the students military instruction on two afternoons of each week. Those parents who do not desire that their sons take the training may have them excused, according to one of the rules to be made if the project goes into effect. The educational committee is composed of W. R. Castle, F. C. Atherton, W. L. Whitney, A. C. Alexander, Judge Sanford B. Dole and A. F. Griffiths.

SUBSTITUTE FOR OPIUM IN THE TREATMENT OF DIABETES

A number of medical writers agree that Opium (Codein) is their only agent to reduce sugar in Diabetes. But, due to its inhibitions, it cannot be given in large doses or long enough and failure is the rule. We announce to physicians that Fulton's Diabetic Compound is more definite in its action on the sugar of Diabetes than Opium, is without its faults and has this distinct advantage—it does not suppress but assimilates the sugar, and containing no dangerous or habit forming constituents can be given in sufficient doses and for a sufficient time to get physiological results, viz.: absorption of the sugar in many cases. This gives the physician a free hand to aid as his judgment suggests. There is no conflict. In people over fifty the disappearance of the sugar is commonly followed by the gradual elimination of the thirst, weakness and painful symptoms, recoveries being reported in many cases as a natural consequence. Substance of formula surrounds bottle. Thoroughly digested and assimilated. No cumulative or after effects. Honolulu Drug Co., local agents. Literature mailed. John J. Fulton Co., 88 First Street, San Francisco. Some analytical results can usually be looked for the third week. The presence of sugar is a PHYSICAL FACT and its disappearance is a FACT IN PHYSICS.—Adv.
